Hi Everyone, I hope you've had a great week since the Global Biodiversity Festival! It was such a wild weekend, I still can't believe that we were able to broadcast live for over 75 hours and stayed on course, getting everyone in! A massive thanks to everyone who joined us and those behind the scenes who made the events happen. Again, huge thanks for everything you did pulling presentations together, coming in early and just being awesome.

I'm going to try and work on personal thank you's this week, but wanted to get something out today to everyone. Last week was a busy week of editing 150+ videos and getting them up in a playlist (plus proving to my family I still existed after the last 2 months). The playlist is here and almost complete, should be wrapped this afternoon:

If you'd like a copy of your presentation, let me know and we can send one your way, as well, we're hoping to get some eyes on the new playlist, so if you can post the list via social media, that would be awesome. I've thrown a sample post below, but feel free to post your own:

Did you miss the Global Biodiversity Festival last week? We've got great news for you, catch all the 150+ speakers from over 60 countries at your own pace with the #globalbiofest playlist:

Paul and Joelle are working away on this year's book and should be sending it all to the printers soon! If you have anything outstanding or questions about what you needed to submit, let me know.

Have a great week,

Joe

PS don't worry if you don't see your event in the playlist yet, we're loading up the last group from Sunday and there is 5 or so we need to get from the production crew as they didn't record properly on our end, but we do have back ups.
